CASE STUDY: DETECTING BARTENDER THEFT

30% AVG TIP

For those involved with theft

BUCKHEAD LIFE RESTAURANT GROUP

THE CHALLENGE

In the summer of 2016, Buckhead Life Restaurant Group's Chief Operating Officer David Abes noticed something unusual at the bar in one of his restaurants. Avero's Check Search showed results with many food items, but almost no beverages. This was an immediate red flag for David.

THE SOLUTION

An avid Avero user for years, David knew he could turn to another Avero tool, the Tips Report in the Service module, to dig deeper. Simply by looking at that outlet's tips by job class and sorting by tip percentage, he saw that three bartenders had average tip percentages of more than 30% each, much higher than the group standard.

THE RESULTS

When David presented his findings to his team, one of the bartenders in question quit on the spot, and the other two were let go soon after. Word about the meeting spread throughout Buckhead Life, and David witnessed positive changes in the behavior of all of his bartenders and servers, saving him thousands of dollars in lost revenue per year.

“Avero is such an eye opener. I found out what was going on, held a bartender meeting, asked the group what they thought their total tip percentage was, and shared the results. They were shocked.
